for Márton and Nico

The Dharma appears in the manner that accords with the perceptions of beings and with their karmic causation and circumstantial conditions. Dharma can be perceived in ~~forms~~ the forms of teachings from a teacher through mental, indicative or aural communications. It can occur as forms, sounds, letters or thoughts. It comes from realized or ordinary beings, trees, water, sky, mountain, earth, rocks, or mind, according to the karma and conditions of the receiver.

--Tulku Thondup Rinpoche

"oho!" cried the general, looking at the specimen of handwriting presented him by Myshkin. "That's a prize copy! And a splendid one! Look, Ganya, what skill!"

--Dostoevsky, The Idiot
