

an apocalypse of haiku

Judy Kamilhor

Judy Kamilhor

an apocalypse of haiku

why apocalypse? look it up . . . .

all poems and other text ©Judy Kamilhor 2006

published by kami haiku,
a division of Baseball gods productions

かみ kami haiku

h
a
i
k
u:
the
choco-
late kiss
of poetry

O scaffolding --
an unfinished building
frames the moon

caught again!
the ebb and flow
... of umbrellas

the haiku book
i ordered arrived in
an empty package . . . .

in fallen leaves,
the shadow of a rose

ice skaters parade --
an audience of
Ancient Trees

hitting my head, the water of

enlightenment

a break
in the clouds
reveals . . . clouds

a tiny bird
in black and white --
no need for Oz

flea market reruns --
i love lucite

view from the
elevated train --

each window
frames a
question

*gargoyles dance
on the tattooed building:
house music*

i want to come back as a haiku

blinded by reflected sunlight:
i close my eyes and see gods playing

summer heat —
the woman loosens
her bikini top

is the moon
half-full or half-empty?
election day

yesterday smelled like maple syrup,
today the usual

sunlight transformed:

the grace

of stained glass

poetry:
still not the
new black

coney island after the mermaid parade:
apocalyse, sequins

lost forever:

the archaeology

of typewriters

time to put
away childish things:
what's for dinner?

bio:

Brooklyn resident Judy Kamilhor (haiku name: kami) has been writing poetry for many years, and started writing massive quantities of haiku and other short poems in 2003. She has had poems published in Haiku Harvest, Simply Haiku, Amaze, Wisteria, and has had one poem included in the World Haiku Club Showcase.

font:

The font for the majority of the poems, and this page, is called New York, for obvious reasons.

Shiki-kun

かみ kami haiku
a division of
Baseball gods productions
kamihaiiku17@yahoo.com
©Judy Kamilhor 2006
www.kamihaiiku.blogspot.com

かみ kami haiku

Shiki-kun

かみ kaml haiku

a division of

Baseball gods productions

kamihaiku17@yahoo.com

©Judy Kamilhor 2006

www.kamihaiku.blogspot.com